ON THE MOVE

Stanford Redwood City Transportation

You Have Questions.
We Have (Some)
Answers.

Do you have questions about your future SRWC commute or campus transportation options and services? In addition to answers on our website, we are planning additional ways to respond to new questions and facilitate your new commute, including events.

At the same time, we appreciate your patience when we don't yet have answers to some of your questions. For example, while we have a draft shuttle schedule for midday service between the Redwood City Caltrain Station and the SRWC campus, we are not yet ready to publish the final shuttle schedule. Why? Because the new transit stops at SRWC are not yet accessible, and we still need to test those routes and the related timing.

We want to assure you that we will be providing answers to your questions and creating opportunities for you to request commute assistance in the weeks and months ahead. We are highlighting some opportunities in this issue and look forward to talking with you!

Top Five Questions

Check out the top five questions we are hearing about SRWC transportation. If you don't find the answer(s) you need, our FAQ and SRWC Transportation microsite have more information.

Plus, you are invited to submit questions through our comment and feedback form.

Use Zipcar instead of Department Vehicles

If your department has one or more department vehicle(s), please consider using Zipcar when you move to SRWC.

Zipcar is an on-demand car sharing service. You can set up a free Department Zipcar account that bills your department's PCard for business use. There will be Zipcars at SRWC, and they can

Did You Know?

Our Marguerite team recently visited the SRWC campus to plan the new midday route between the Redwood City Caltrain station and Stanford Redwood City campus.

See the photos they shared for a glimpse of the new campus, including a photo of one of the new secure bike cages.

We plan to share more information about the SRWC bicycle program in February. In the meantime, please let us know if we can answer questions or help with your commute.

We also are planning commute events in February and March. Stay tuned for details!

Self-Directed "Try Your Commute Day"

Thank you to the 41 commuters who expressed interest in our "Try Your Commute Day" options. The responses indicate greater interest in a self-directed "Try Your Commute" Day than in an organized group event. We will be providing resources to support this self-directed commute day by early March.
